Canada customs officials have shown they will take a serious attitude with Canadian excursionists who attempt to bring back goods subject to customs duty without declaring them, from U.S. on one-day excursions. This was shown by the actions of the customs officers with passengers of Ss. Princess Elizabeth, which carried 1,007 Victorians to Port Angeles last Saturday. This was the first excursion of the year and was sponsored by the Y.M.C.A. Men's Club.

As the ship left Victoria Harbor, a customs officer warned passengers over the ship's public address system that all goods which were subject to duty must be declared, but despite this warning, many went on a buying spree when they landed in the American port.

When boarding the ship to come home, all passengers were thoroughly searched by the customs officials and those attempting to bring back more than one dollar's worth of dutiable goods had the goods confiscated.

They were given a receipt for their goods and they will be required to go and pay the import duty before they can claim their parcels.

It is the law that a Canadian cannot bring goods into the country until he has been outside the country for at least 48 hours. A person staying 48 hours can, in most cases, bring merchandise to the value of $100 back, tax free.

Lachute Shuttle Strike Spreads

LACHUTE, Que. (CP) — Between 150 and 200 workers of the Dominion Shuttle Company here went on strike today and formed picket lines outside the company building, adding impetus to labor strife in this industrial town 40 miles northwest of Montreal.

A company spokesman said the workers, members of the United Textile Workers of America (A.F.L.), did not report for work but milled around the gate until the picket lines were formed. He said there were no disturbances.

Union officials Sunday night announced they were calling out workers in the shuttle company, a subsidiary of Ayers Ltd. textile mill, which has been closed, or partly closed, four weeks. The parent company employs 600 workers.

Demands in the strike called today are the same as those against the Ayers mill. The union is seeking a 15-cents-an-hour wage increase, six legal holidays a year and a union shop provision in the work contract. The company granted increases of from 5 to 8 cents to workers who returned last week.

Nanking Admits Communist Victories

NANKING (AP)—A series of Communist victories across north China from Shansi to Shantung was acknowledged by pro-government sources Sunday night coincident with disclosure that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek had made a secret trip to the front to rally his Nationalist commanders.

The Communists on April 25 captured T'ai'an, strategic supply base 33 miles south of Tsinan. The Communist radio said members of the government's 72nd division who surrendered there had been freed and sent home.

The Communist broadcasts also reported a string of victories, including capture of four other cities.

Boy Finds Out Both Feet Gone

OTTAWA (CP) — Donald Brennan, 13-year-old lad whose nurses hadn't the heart to tell him his feet had been amputated, has found out for himself.

Donnie lost both feet in a fall from a streetcar last Friday night near his suburban Westboro home. Suffering from severe shock in hospital, he rallied sufficiently during the week-end to make the discovery for himself.

"The first thing he asked me," said his fearful mother, Mrs. William Brennan, "was whether or not he would ever be able to swim again."

Beer, officer commanding Marine Squadron at Patricia Bay, which rescued the occupants of the wind-tossed alligator off the Gulf Islands when the engine failed. They were adrift for 24 hours before they were picked up by the rescue crew.

No Progress Seen In Talks For New Loggers' Contract

VANCOUVER (CP)—Chances of early settlement in negotiations between British Columbia lumber operators and the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.) appear more remote than ever following a meeting here today.

The operators' representative, R. V. Stuart, told the union's negotiating committee that many loggers had remained idle Saturday, despite assurances from the I.W.A. district council that local officials would advise them to observe a recent arbitration board ruling requiring them to work a 48-hour week during summer months.

Stuart said it was a severe handicap to bargaining in good faith and to confidence in the 1947 contract if the 1946 agreement was being flouted at the very time the union was asking the operators to make major new concessions.

NO ULTIMATUMS

He said the operators, in trying to have the 1946 contract terms observed, were not issuing ultimatums or taking any action to interfere with the orderly process of bargaining in good faith.

Stuart again submitted to union officials an employers' demand that both the industry and the union accept responsibility for observance of the 1947 agreement and that each party to the agreement post bonds on the basis of $10 for each employee, either bond to be attachable in the case of non-fulfillment of the contract.

The operators' representative also proposed that the new contract contain a clause agreeing that no stoppage of work of any kind take place during the grievance procedure, in compliance with the conciliation arbitration act passed by the Legislature of B.C. at its last session.

U.S. Insists No Full Voice For Jews At Assembly Session

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States stood firm today against the Russian demand that the Jews be given a full voice on the floor of the United Nations' Assembly during the current Palestine debate.

The Russian-backed Slav bloc, on the other hand, appeared to be wavering. This appeared evident as it held in readiness an alternative plan aimed at assuring the Jews a hearing in committee deliberations, if not in plenary meetings.

As the delegates assembled to resume debate on this controversial problem in plenary session, informed quarters said the United States would accept the compromise proposal only on condition that it restricted the Jews to the status of witnesses on call before the Assembly's 55-power political committee.

The United States was said to feel that the official Jewish Agency for Palestine and other organizations should not be permitted to participate fully in the debate, even before the political committee, and should not be allowed to appear at all before plenary meetings.

A member of the Soviet delegation said Russia still feels the Jews should be given a hearing on the floor of the Assembly, but is willing to have them heard by the political committee if the majority of the delegates feel that is better.

Telephone Strike In U.S. Likely To End Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Henry Mayer, counsel for some of the unions of the National Federation of Telephone Workers (Ind.), said today there might be a settlement of the nation-wide telephone strike "by nightfall."

Simultaneously the N.E.T.W. regional strike committee said that a meeting of the national policy committee and the "intensive drive by government officials" both "point to an imminent settlement."

Mayer, declaring "there might be a settlement by nightfall," said he based his opinion on a statement by officials of the long lines department of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., who reported they would review immediately a federal proposal of a $5.14 weekly wage increase CALLED OUT 300,000.

The long lines workers, members of the American Union of Telephone Workers, are a key affiliate of the N.E.T.W., which called out more than 300,000 employees of A.T. & T., and its Bell system companies April 7. Other N.E.T.W. members still on strike include employees of the Western Electric Co. and the Bell Telephone Laboratories.

Mayer tempered his statement by saying that a continued impasse in Western Electric negotiations was "a fly in the ointment."

Other independent unions joined with the N.E.T.W. in the walkout. Among these were four independent New York unions, most of whose 37,000 members returned to work today at the New York Telephone Company, the company announced, after accepting a $4 weekly wage boost last week.

Socialist Premier Sought In Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Pressure for appointment of a socialist Premier grew today and most of Tokyo's newspapers predicted resignation of Conservative Premier Shigeru Yoshida's cabinet on Tuesday.

The cabinet is scheduled to meet then to frame an imperial ordinance convoking the newly-elected Diet May 20. Most newspaper writers predicted the ministers would resign. Resignation, under the new constitution, is required before the first meeting of the Diet.

All major Tokyo papers—including the Conservative Nippon Keizai—agreed editorially today that the Social Democratic Party deserved the premiership on the basis of its plurality in both houses of the new Diet.

Gabriola Island Area Centre Of Renewed Airliner Search

An exhaustive combing of coastal waters in southern British Columbia was under way today following reports an aircraft believed to be the missing Trans-Canada airliner was seen "flying over Georgia Straits" last Monday night shortly after it had lost contact with Vancouver airport.

The reports, described as reliable by officials in charge of the search for the Lodestar and its 15 passengers, came from residents of Gabriola Island, lying in the Georgia Straits less than five miles off Nanaimo on Vancouver Island.

Word that a low-flying aircraft had been sighted strengthened the belief that the plane had crashed into the sea instead of hurtling into a mountain side. Today the unflagging search—greatest aerial scouting in the history of Canadian aviation—is being centred in the vicinity of Gabriola Island, with officials more hopeful than they have been for several days that the mystery will soon be solved.

HOPES FADING

Hopes that survivors will be located, however, are fading fast with every hour the search continues.

Saturday 50 planes roared through British Columbia skies seeking any trace of the missing aircraft. Sunday their number dwindled while the mystery remained as great as ever.

Late last night, however, new hope was brought to the searchers with the statement from Gabriola Island and this morning the search was as extensive as ever. No reason was given for the delay by the islanders for forwarding their story to authorities.

Officials said that the time mentioned in the statements containing the clue was only a few minutes before that at which a Nanaimo fisherman had earlier reported picking up a message on a small radio set in his boat. This message was reported to have ended with "there is water all around us."

Showdown Planned In Maritime Strike

GLACE BAY, N.S. (CP) — Plans for a showdown meeting in Ottawa to attempt settlement in the 11-week-old Maritime coal strike still awaited completion today after a meeting of the district board representing the 143,000 pit workers which ended Sunday without an announcement.

However, in a Sydney, N.S., dispatch, the Halifax Herald said it had learned the conference had been tentatively set for next week-end. It said the exact date would depend on prorogation of the Nova Scotia Legislature, expected late this week.

The newspaper said its informant "pointed to the fact that on May 15 jurisdiction over labor relations will revert from the federal to provincial governments and Nova Scotia government officials were anxious to press for a strike settlement before that time."

Order 750 Parcels For Britain

The special committee in charge of administering the Mayor's Fund has ordered 750 10-pound parcels to be sent immediately, it was learned from Mayor Percy George today. Mrs. F. E. Dowdall, of the Municipal Chapter of the I.O.D.E., is chairman of the committee.

The parcels are being mailed individually to the W.V.S., instead of crated in large lots because it will take several months before shipping space can be chartered for such crates, it was learned, and the committee felt the parcels should be sent immediately. The first shipment of 750 will take approximately $4,500 of the $7,717 which is now in the fund, and as soon as a sufficient amount is contributed a second shipment will be sent.

The parcels have been ordered from Scott and Peden, David Spencer Ltd., and the Hudson's Bay Company.

Each parcel will weigh approximately 10 pounds and contain dried apricots, beef suet or other fat, powdered milk, powdered eggs, tinned meats, tinned salmon, muffin mix, custard powder, tea, jelly, chicken, sweet hot chocolate, noodle soup mix and sandwich spread.

JERUSALEM (AP)—British troops and police fanned out over northern Palestine today in a great manhunt for 227 Jewish and Arab prisoners still at liberty after a mass delivery from Acre Prison engineered Sunday by the Jewish underground.

Sixteen persons—including 11 members of the underground band who blasted a two-yard hole in the wall of the ancient citadel—were killed in the break, described as one of the biggest in modern times.

A total of 251 of the 555 prisoners of the old prison north of Haifa participated in the dash for freedom, but five—four Jews and an Arab—were killed before they could make good their escape. Nineteen, eight of them wounded, were recaptured within a few hours. Twenty-three others were wounded in the exchange of gunfire that accompanied the break. At least nine of the underground raiders were reported captured uninjured.

AREAS CORDONED OFF

Troops of the British 6th Airborne Division, moving with lightning speed, cordoned off at least a dozen predominantly Jewish settlements in the immediate vicinity of Acre during the night and began an inch-by-inch hunt for fugitives.

All villages in a 120-mile area were placed under surveillance and highways were blocked every few miles by gun-bristling blockades at which all travelers were checked and all automobiles searched.

The manhunt, greatest in Palestine's history, reached from historic Acre itself to Tiberias on the Sea of Galilee and north into the Jewish colony area at the headwaters of the Jordan River. Authoritative sources reported, meanwhile, that an investigation into the circumstances surrounding the delivery had been launched on a high level.

Army figures today said that of the 251 prisoners who took part in the break, 11 were Arabs and 60 Jews. A number of the fugitives—both Jews and Arabs—were serving life terms.

WORE UNIFORMS

Prison attaches in Acre reported the prison was first penetrated by a small band of "commandos" dressed in army gear and led by a Jew in the uniform of a captain in the Royal Engineers. The party boldly placed ladders against the prison wall from the roof of an adjoining Turkish bath building and blasted open two heavily-grilled windows with small explosive charges.

The party then climbed through the windows into a long corridor of the prison and blasted open two iron gates inside, freeing prisoners gathered in the courtyard.

The wall was breached simultaneously by other attacks.

Irgun Zvai Leumi, Jewish underground organization, claimed credit for engineering the break.

The train carried 450 employees of the government excise department, most of them from Brisbane, 15 miles south of the crash scene. Twenty of the injured were hurt seriously.

Soviet Movie Has Churchill Seeking Cheap, Easy Peace

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain's Wartime Prime Minister, Winston Churchill, is depicted as opposed to the E. 1943 in a new Russia movie, "The Battle of Stalingrad," which also quotes the late Franklin D. Roosevelt as saying British leaders dreamed of a "cheap victory and a profitable peace."

The scenario of the movie, which portrays Generalissimo Stalin in the principal role, was broadcast by the Moscow radio today.

One scene shows Stalin's study crowded with the Generalissimo, Churchill, Foreign Minister Molotov, United States Ambassador Averell Harriman, British Ambassador Sir Archibald Clark-Kerr (now Baron Inverchapel) and others in conference.

The following dialogue ensues: Churchill: Invasion of Europe is impossible. Great Britain cannot risk an operation which may not bring proper results.

Stalin: Bluntly speaking, the British want to break their earnest pledges made in the spring of this year. Is that so?

Churchill (after more discussion): We cannot do more this year. Africa will be quite enough for our land forces at present.

Churchill is then shown lighting another cigar.

After the British and U.S. representatives leave Stalin is heard saying: All is understood. They want us to shed more blood so as to be able to dictate to us later. They will not succeed.

STOPPED AT DON

Another scene shows Roosevelt in his study reading the latest news and talking to an unnamed journalist.

Roosevelt: The Russians have stopped the Germans on the Don.

Journalist: Yes. It makes me think of those people who advised us not to send arms to them.

Roosevelt: How can we help them now?

Journalist: By invading Europe from the west.

Roosevelt: Alas, this does not depend on me, you know.

Journalist: The British dream of a cheap victory.

Roosevelt: Cheap victory and profitable peace—that is what suits them.

23 Per Cent Slashed From Budget Of 3 U.S. Agencies

WASHINGTON (AP)—A 23 per cent cut in the combined 1948 budgets of three United States government departments and the federal courts was recommended today by the House of Representatives appropriations committee.

The committee sent the $335,028,008 omnibus supply bill to the House floor with a sharp report warning all federal agencies against a "spending psychology."

It recommended:

1. Abolition of the State Department's war-born foreign cultural relations program, which State Secretary Marshall had defended as "an integral and essential part of the conduct of foreign relations."

2. Funds for the Justice Department's drive to recover claimed freight overcharges against the government during wartime and for the anti-trust division's campaign against the "big fish" among monopolies.

Changes In Controls Completed For Present

OTTAWA (CP)—No more major controls will be removed for another month.

The government, it can be taken now, has lifted all the lids it considers removable at the moment. The last one was the 10-cent hike in the butter ceiling last Thursday.

That was the last major shuffle where subsidies were involved, thus cleaning up the government's worries in that respect.

For the rest of this month, at least, business and consumers can take it easy, so far as worrying about control changes goes.

"Fear permeates men's minds," he said in a 40-minute interview. "But if all goes well with India, then the world may have a long peace."

He also made these points: The Jews in Palestine are damaging their case by violence. Communal division of India is not inevitable.

British withdrawal from India must take place according to schedule, irrespective of internal conditions.

3 Survive Crash In North Bushland

EDMONTON (CP)—All three members of a four-seater Moth plane, marooned at Coffey Lake, about 240 miles north of here, were recuperating today after a seven-day experience in the northern bushland.

The trio, George Fletcher of Brandon, Man., pilot of the plane, and his two passengers, Joseph Driscoll and 15-year-old Jim McAvoy, both of Yellowknife, N.W.T., were returned to civilization Sunday night by an Associated Airways plane piloted by Tom Fox.

None of the men received serious injury when the plane crash-landed on the lake last Sunday after developing engine trouble. They were en route from Edmonton to Yellowknife at the time.

They should meet the Arabs, make friends with them and not depend on British aid or American aid, or on any aid save what descends from Jehovah.

190 At Charter Night

Rotary clubs at Courtenay, Nanaimo, Duncan, Campbell River, Victoria, the Albernis, Port Angeles and Vancouver were represented. Members of the Courtenay club arranged the meeting and Lea Anderton, president of Courtenay Rotarians and special representative of Rotary International, presided.

Each of the clubs represented made presentation to the new unit which has 20 charter members.

Besides Mr. Parker other officers of Qualicum Rotary are Charlie Little, vice-president; R. Goard, treasurer and D. Findlay, sergeant-at-arms.

Meetings will take place each Monday at noon in the Log Cabin.

Carson Discusses
Tsable River Road
At Cumberland

CUMBERLAND—Estimating the cost of a 30-foot road between Cumberland and Tsable River at between $300,000 and $400,000, Hon. E. C. Carson, Minister of Public Works, held out little hope for its immediate construction, in an address in Masonic Hall here.

He said shortage of contractors in the province made it difficult for the government to carry out even its present commitments, without embarking on new projects.

Failing construction of the road linking Cumberland and the new Tsable River coal mine, Mr. Carson suggested that the alternative route (Cumberland, Buckley Bay, Tsable River) be used for the time being.

H. J. Welch, M.L.A., and leaders of local groups opposed the suggestion, stating the distance involved, 40 miles for a round trip, would work a hardship on the miners who would be away from their homes about 10 hours each day.

Melbourne Gets Gas
As Strike Settled

MELBOURNE (Reuter)—Settlement of a four-week metal trades dispute in Victoria, which cut all transportation and power services in the state, was announced today.

The announcement said the settlement terms provide for an early resumption of work and a court of inquiry into wage questions.

The strike had deprived Melbourne of trains for three weeks. Gasoline supplies to Melbourne businessmen were reduced and the issue to private motorists indefinitely postponed as an indirect result.

Russia Will Not War
Against U.S.—Stalin

WASHINGTON (AP)—Generalissimo Stalin told Harold E. Stassen, Republican presidential aspirant, the differing economic systems of Russia and the United States can exist in harmony together if there is a will to co-operate.

He added that Russia "wants to co-operate" and "does not propose" to wage war against the United States.

Stalin also made the flat declaration that "international control and inspection" of atomic energy "will be established in my view and it will be of great importance." Use of this great new force for war "will be prohibited," he forecast.

Stassen, former Minnesota governor, made public Saturday night, with Stalin's consent, the transcript of an 80-minute inter-

Heads Of German
I. G. Farben Trust
Face War Trials

NUERNBERG, Germany (AP)—A 20,000-word war crimes indictment charging 24 members of the Giant I. G. Farben combine with making cartel arrangements "carefully designed to weaken the United States as an arsenal of democracy" was filed Saturday with the American Military Tribunal.

Brig. Gen. Telford Taylor, chief counsel, presented the indictment setting out the successive steps the world's largest chemical company took to prepare Germany for war, and its role in waging war.

It accused the 24 men of sponsoring Hitler's war aims, and of using slave labor, mass murder and plundering of private properties to carry them out. Among the top officials indicted are Carl Krauch, chairman of the Farben supervisory board of directors; Hermann Schmitz, chairman of the managing board of directors, and Georg von Schnitzler, chief of all foreign and domestic sales divisions.

Their trial will take place next month.

WORDS AND ACTION

THE WESTERN WORLD WILL HAVE read with satisfaction and approval the report of the talk between Premier Joseph Stalin and Mr. Harold E. Stassen, former governor of the state of Minnesota, in which the Soviet leader declared that Russia desires to co-operate with the United States and that there is nothing in their widely divergent economic systems to prevent harmony. But at the same time, readers will have experienced a slight feeling of reservation—a sense of “we have heard the words, now let us see the action.” For this is not the first time Premier Stalin has voiced such welcome sentiments, and the announcements have not always been followed by actions to bear them out in the various meetings of national leaders.

The head of the Russian state, who does not hold press conferences, seldom takes the opportunity to make public his views on world affairs for the benefit of the western peoples. Occasionally a crack reporter or the head of a news agency will be furnished replies to a proffered list of questions, now and then a visitor will come away with permission to quote from an interview. But these instances are few and far between, and such pronouncements as are made public have been viewed with the importance and respect which their rarity ensures.

The perplexity of the western world arises from the contrast between the friendly and urbane aspect of Premier Stalin, as represented in these interviews, and the recalcitrant attitude of his ministers in international dealings—between the announcements prepared for outside consumption and the periodic blasts let loose by Pravda and other members of a state-controlled press for the edification of Soviet citizens. Which represents the true picture, which should we believe?

An interesting sidelight on Russian thought is provided by Premier Stalin's remark, as reported by the Associated Press: “Things are not bad in the United States. America is protected by two oceans. In the north there is a weak country, Canada, and to the south, a weak country, Mexico, and so you need not be afraid of them.” From his words, it would seem to have escaped the Soviet leader that two nations might live in peace and good will arising merely from mutual respect and recognition of common ideals of humanity, and not for the sole reason that one was vastly stronger than the other. His remark was a typically European one, born of age-old rivalries and conflicts, where a frontier is not a door to your neighbor but a jealously-guarded defensive wall to keep him out. In this attitude of fear and mistrust, no doubt, lies the key to the troubles which so far have beset the conferences of the United Nations. The solution will lie in the co-operation of which Premier Stalin speaks, but only when it has been put into universal practice.

NEW DAY IN BRITISH MINES

ONE DAY AFTER PRIME MINISTER Attlee had spoken words of modified cheer in a “May Day” message in London, and had tempered his encouragement with a plea for patience and hard work, British labor embarked upon a new program in the coal mines. The change for underground workers entailed a shorter work week, and the hope was entertained that production of sorely-needed coal would not suffer from the reduction in hours.

Despite certain dislocations arising from the introduction of the new schedule—and an unauthorized strike in 12 Durham mines was among them—Britons had some grounds on which to base their expectations of satisfactory output from the pits. The improvement in conditions should at least attract more men to the mines and curtail the drift away from the industry, which has posed a major problem in recent years. There was a strong probability, too, that mechanical advancement would supply a higher yield and remove at least some of the objectionable features which were discouraging potential miners from entering the occupation.

The vital character of coal in Britain's economy is widely appreciated. From it must come the energy to drive the industrial machine of that country, which can re-establish itself only as industry regains and extends its capacities. Many inducements have been offered to mining communities to step up production. Extra unrationed food and consumer goods have been distributed in mining towns to stimulate the workers to greater effort. And the pleas for co-operation under nationalization have emphasized the fact that only through improvement of this basic industry can the standard of living be raised for a people thoroughly informed on the meaning of “austerity.”

It is scarcely to be expected, even with the greater consideration shown miners under the new program, that work in the pits will be a comfortable occupation. On the other hand, there should be little inclination among those who follow the trade to ignore the dependence Britain is now placing on them to regain in some measure the position she held before she defended the bastion of freedom in a war which left her impoverished. As Mr. Attlee said, there is need for hard work. The miners of his country will not shirk it.

ANOTHER DIVISION IN FRANCE

FRANCE'S RECURRING DIFFICULTIES arising from the multi-party administrative system held the spotlight again today as Premier Paul Ramadier initiated his experiment of government without the Communists. Although the cabinet shake-up appeared to be the result of differences on a domestic issue—specifically the wage demands of workers in the Renault automobile plant—the personalities dropped from ministerial office gave to the shuffle more than internal significance. Maurice Thorez, Communist leader, was relieved of his post as vice-premier, and other well-known party figures were released.

Many factors lend significance to the changes made by Premier Ramadier. Of vital importance to France at this time is the establishment of a unified front with which to face the problems of participation in the peace-making. When M. Georges Bidault left for Moscow to take part in the deliberations of the “Big Four,” he had behind him the apparently solid support of all French parties. Question naturally arises now over his ability to claim similar backing for future discussions. Yet, in view of the firm stand France has taken on retention of the industrial sections of Germany over which she now exerts control, unity of purpose should be an overriding factor in any political developments within the land.

Moreover, the re-emergence of Gen. Charles de Gaulle as an active figure in French political life may lend specific point to the stand taken by the Communists. As the former head of the Free French proceeds with activities that are hailed in some quarters as a definite challenge to the Leftist elements, a schism appears to be widening in the nation. Future events may disclose the extent to which the De Gaulle trend toward the cementing of stronger ties with the United States may stimulate energetic counter-moves by the Communists toward the Russian ideology, and thereby widen the breach between differing factions in France. Whatever the days ahead may have in store, however, the events of the week-end accentuate the problems which emerge in a country in which allegiance is divided among so many political groups.

OPEN THE DOOR

VICTORIANS, IN COMPANY WITH other British Columbians, will welcome the news that the provincial government already has embarked on its advertising campaign to attract United States tourists this summer. While sufficient publicity material was continued during the war years to keep the province's attractions in the minds of potential tourists, and 1946 set a new tourist revenue record for Canada as a whole; the current drive is the first full-scale local operation since 1939. It is set against the background of the broader campaign being conducted by the Canadian Association of Tourist and Publicity Bureaus, which seeks to build up the tourist industry on a national basis.

The association lists several ways in which the man in the street can help promote this valuable trade. It suggests that we, as individuals, should familiarize ourselves with all local activities of concern to the tourist; take an active interest in community organizations which support this business; foster a tourist consciousness among our elected representatives; and do what we can to ensure that visitors are received in a courteous and friendly fashion and that their stay is made enjoyable.

In the words of the association: “Let us take nothing for granted. The visitor industry did not grow of itself.”

Prospects of a substantial tourist trade this year are reported to be very good, and our streets may see the return of the days when automobiles of visitors almost outnumbered local cars. For the economically minded, the value of the tourist industry needs no further elaboration. For those who are interested in seeing the perpetuation of a friendly trans-border traffic that is almost unique in the world, the social advantages are equally apparent. Victorians will be rendering themselves and others valuable service if they extend to these visitors the hand of friendly welcome.

AHEAD OF THE GAME

SURROUNDED AS WE ARE IN VICTORIA with the sunshine and flowers of 1947, many of us already well on the way to attaining the coveted suntan of summer, and daffodils now a thing of the past, it comes as rather a shock to realize that many parts of Canada still are awaiting the coming of spring. The point was brought home to us upon receiving a letter from Toronto recently in which the writer was looking forward to things to be done “as soon as spring arrives.”

The letter was received the same day that a news report told of a three and a half inch fall of snow in Edmonton. And this brought to mind similar examples of unruly weather east of the Rockies: the fall of snow in Winnipeg on V-E Day, which was celebrated on May 10, the minor blizzard in Flin Flon on June 10, and other proofs that Victoria is still the pick of the country when it comes to climate. We cannot claim any credit for nature's benevolence here; but we can certainly take full advantage of it.

Smelling Salts

Editor's Note: The following excerpts from Mr. Dalton's recent speech in presenting his budget to the British House of Commons are reprinted here in view of their succinct presentation of the economic situation in the United Kingdom. They deal mainly with the remarks of the Chancellor of the Exchequer on the overseas trade position.

THIS YEAR, we shall not only balance the budget; we shall have a good balance in hand. I trust this surplus will act as smelling salts under the noses of those who, both in this country and outside it, have lately been showing signs of despondency, if not of fainting fits, at the thought of our financial future. We have, and I make no concealment of this, a very tough external problem to face, of which I shall speak later; but as far as our domestic affairs are concerned, this budget surplus, of close on £250,000,000, is a clear sign of our internal financial strength, which all the world should note.

I turn for a moment or two to the question of our overseas deficit. I have promised to speak of this most tough, external problem, and I will speak of it quite frankly, and seek to deploy the facts before the House without concealment. Our internal finance presents many difficult problems, but they are all easy, relatively speaking, compared to the external problem of our balance payments on overseas trading account. That is much the biggest headache which must beset any thoughtful person, no matter what his politics or what his economic circumstances may be. No other country in the world, without exception, faces so tough an external problem as we. It is the result—I have remarked on this before, and I repeat—it is the strange and ironical result of our tremendous effort over six long years of war, an effort in which we in this little island, who were in it from the start, distorted the whole of our economy, without any thought either of the cost or of the consequences, to save many others who, without us, would never have been delivered from defeat and from a slavery worse than death.

IT WAS A COMMON, national effort. What did we do? We ruthlessly cut down our exports, we sacrificed the great part of our overseas investments, and we incurred vast expenditure, all over the world, for the import of munitions into various areas in order to defend the inhabitants, who often took a minor part in the operation, and for the provision of services for our own troops—expenditure which now, as part of the accountability of victory, is hung round our necks as “war debts.” These large and swollen sterling balances—I do not speak of the smaller sterling balances, which arise in the course of trading—would never have arisen had Lend-Lease been the common rule among all the Allies. These great balances can never be discharged, or even diminished, except by unrequited exports—exports unbalanced by imports. And these unrequited exports are—and I speak bluntly, looking at the facts as they represent themselves to me—a luxury of which we can afford very little for many years to come.

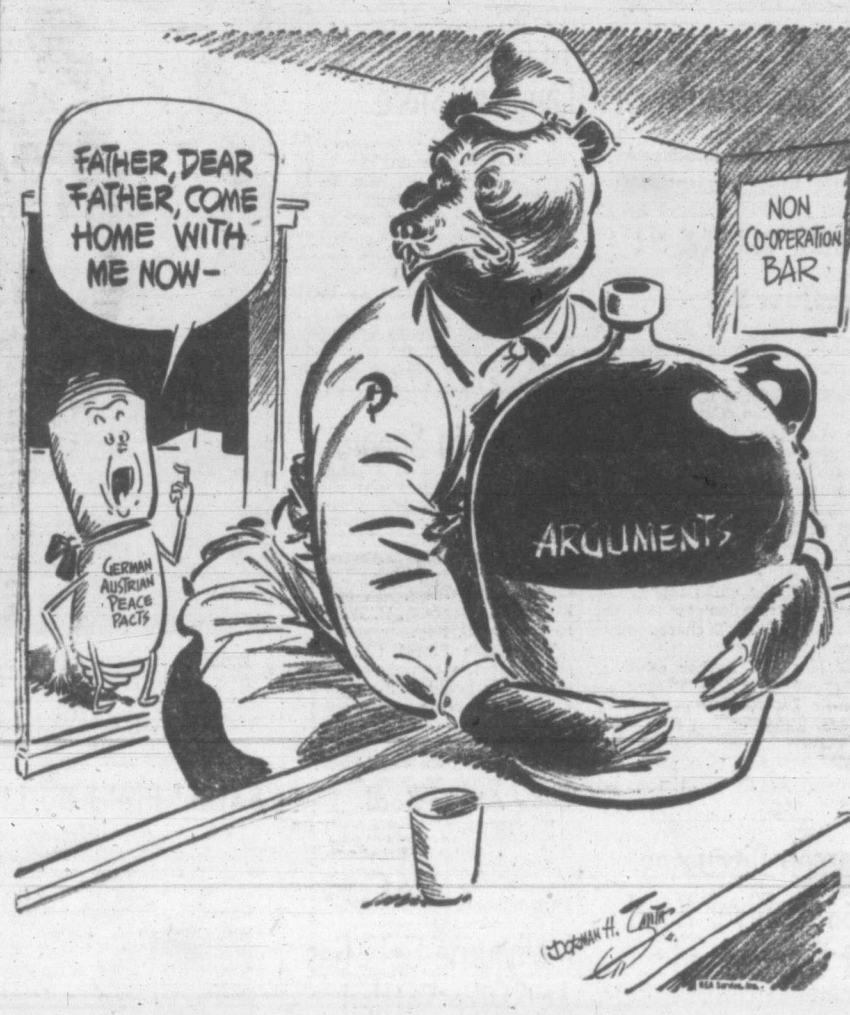

DOLLAR PRICES HAVE been rising, and even tending to some extent to outrun the increase in the prices of our exports. And we are thus placed in this exceptionally disadvantageous position—we are drawing much faster than we intended and than we wished on the United States and Canadian lines of credit. In the United States, dollar prices, after a temporary decline last September, have since risen more steeply than ever, and the United States wholesale price index is now some 40 per cent higher than it was when the Anglo-American Loan Agreement was approved by this House. They are not the same dollars today; their purchasing power has to that extent diminished.

THE SLOW RECOVERY of the non-dollar world is a very great misfortune for us all. We had hoped for a much quicker recovery, but we underestimated the wicked destruction done by German and Japanese and their satellites all over the world.

MAY I BE PERMITTED, to summarize our situation, to quote a few words which I used just a month ago in a speech at Swansea. I said then: “We must either export more or import less, or both. Our imports include large quantities of food, tobacco, . . . and raw materials—such as cotton, wool, hides and timber. If, therefore, we must reduce our imports, it will simply mean—and I emphasize these words—that we shall have less to eat and less to smoke and fewer clothes and boots and shoes to wear, and fewer houses, and less furniture, and less employment in many industries. In other words, we shall all have a lower standard of living and more unemployment. That is the danger we have to defeat.”

I SOUGHT TO PORTRAY it as clearly as I could. I desire to conceal nothing and to diminish nothing in the telling of what threatens us all. Cromwell once said to his Ironsides—and his words have been quoted again the other day in the Press: “Well, your danger is as you have seen. And truly I am sorry it is so great. But I wish it to cause no despondency; as truly, I think, it will not; for we are Englishmen.” And Scots as well. And, after heavy battle, the Ironsides won through, and so shall we. But our need to increase exports is more urgent than ever, and no one but a scatter-brained fool denies the export drive. We are now in more extreme necessities, than in the pre-war days. In this little overburdened, over-crowded island, we must export, or we shall expire. I cannot put it more simply.

Not Until The Jug Is Empty.

For Good Or For Evil

Health Magazine

MATTHEW ARNOLD states that culture is based on a knowledge of “all that is best in what has been thought or written.” In other words, the basis for what is good in us and therefore the contribution we can make for the good of society comes largely from what we read. Conversely, the bad that is in us also comes from the bad literature we read. One is led, therefore, to wonder what will be the result on society of the flood of salacious literature with which we are plagued in these days. Avaricious authors and unscrupulous publishers seem to have combined to provide us with a literary diet which can be nothing but demoralizing. De Maupassant and “Three Weeks,” which shocked a generation ago, have been succeeded by books and magazine stories besides which these are mild and innocuous. And one begins to see the names of the authors of spicy wares even on the covers of books recommended for the study of English in universities.

MIRROR OF LIFE?

Whether this phenomenon merely provides a mirror of contemporary life is a matter for conjecture. That it actually influences the way we think and ultimately live is certain. One is justified in saying that in the long run man becomes what he reads. If this is true, one of our great problems is how to stem the tide of literature which hurts us.

The advice of our literary critics and advisors is frequently useless. Too often it is summed up in the admonition that censorship is futile. Frequently these specious critics insist that it is dangerous. Generally, however, the opponents of censorship fail to suggest any alternative. One is prone to think that they are too often like some of the opponents of prohibition, who are so anxious to drink for their own pleasure that they were not particularly interested in whether the other fellow drank himself to death or not.

DISINTEGRATION

Meanwhile, we are told that one marriage in five in the United States ends in divorce. In Los Angeles, it is one in three. A Harvard professor speaking in New York recently stated, that if the present trend continues, the American family will disappear at the end of the century. And venereal disease clinics are cluttered up with patients who have so little moral stamina that, when penicillin removes the restraint of fear, they promptly add to the taxpayers bill and their own degradation by getting infected again.

It would seem almost time for someone to do something about it. It is a complicated problem and there are a good many things which might be done to save civilization. But it might not be a bad idea to do something about the things we read. What complicates the task is that it isn't only a job for somebody but for everybody. And too frequently everybody's business is nobody's business.

Improvement On Radar?

U.K. Information Office

AN IMPORTANT factor in maintaining the flow of coal to London during the fogs at the end of February and early in March was the use of a special navigation device loaned by the Admiralty and installed on a number of colliers sailing to the capital. The installation, Decca Navigator, enables ships to plot their positions so accurately that they can navigate narrow channels or dangerous coasts in the thickest fog without needing to observe lights, buoys, or other marine marks.

The Decca Navigator is one of the modern forms of position-fixing of the “Hyperbolic” type. This means that a pattern of radio waves is radiated from a master transmitting station associated with three satellite stations. The pattern is received by the instrument aboard ship, and simple dial readings indicate the position on a navigational chart. The receiver requires no manipulation, and as long as the ship remains within the coverage of the system, its position can be plotted direct from the dial readings with a high degree of accuracy.

ONE 'CHAIN' OPERATING

At the moment only one “chain” is operating in the United Kingdom, covering the Thames Estuary, the English Channel, and the area south of the latitude of Newcastle. The system was recently approved by the government, and it is hoped to erect a Scottish “chain” which should give complete coverage around the coastal lanes of the United Kingdom.

Approximately eight “chains” would be required to give complete European coverage. In this connection it was recently reported that the Danish government had concluded an agreement with the United Kingdom manufacturers for the construction of a chain of these stations. As the system has already been adopted in Scandinavia (with the exception of Norway), France and the French Empire, and Holland, this means that vessels fitted with the Decca navigational apparatus will soon be able to use the service anywhere in the area bounded by the Southern Baltic in the east, Cape Ushant in the west, and the Shetland Islands in the north.

Trials are being made to determine the use of the system by aircraft, for the navigation of which it should have many advantages.

Red China To Mary Knight

The Reader's Digest

DECLARING that the Chinese Communists have overrun a fourth of China's 500,000,000 people and of her 4,000,000 square miles, Mary Knight, in the Reader's Digest for May warns that with more aid from Russia they could take over the “weakened” remainder of China. Miss Knight's article, condensed from the New Leader, is written out of her long journalistic experience in China.

Chinese Communists are Communists, she holds, despite their denial of Russian connections, and a Red China inevitably means a Red Asia. The Chinese Communist leaders are exponents of Marxist-Leninist ideology. Their army of 2,000,000 wears the Red Star. Mao Tse-tung, chairman of the Communist Party, though he has disavowed Russian “entanglements,” told the party in 1935: “Our ultimate program is to advance China into the realm of Communism.” Propaganda has fostered a Mao myth similar to the Stalin myth in Russia. “His picture is everywhere; kindergartens teach songs about Comrade Mao.”

PARALLEL TO RUSSIA

Communist China's totalitarianism parallels that of Russia. Miss Knight reports. “Virtually all important posts are held by party members. The Politburo and its secretariat are all Red. Speech is tightly restricted. Thought control begins in kindergartens with class-war songs. The newspapers print only what the leaders want the people to believe. The secret police watches for anti-party-line nonsense.”

Anti-American feeling runs high, the article says. Chou Enlai,

Communist director of foreign propaganda, has accused President Truman of trying to turn China into an American colony. American policy is scored as “aggressive imperialism appearing civilized and legal on the surface.” In Manchuria, school children were taught to draw posters showing Americans as two-headed pigs.

Chinese Communist influence is expanding westward, Miss Knight says, into regions where “the largely aboriginal peasants are ready for a change.” Conditioned by the “New Democracy” anti-lord propaganda, the peasant-soldier does his leader's bidding, and has proved adept at guerrilla warfare.

When any race fakes history to make itself seem what it is not, it is ashamed of what it is.

DISTANCE LENDS CHARM

Edmonton Bulletin
The reeve of an Ontario town says he will pay the traveling expenses of any imported Communist in Canada who thinks he would “like to go back and live in Russia.” It is not quite clear from the dispatch that he even draws the line there and would not also supply a free ticket to any Canadian Red who may fancy he would prefer to dwell in the land of the Soviets.

As for Marxists who came here from Russia, they are still here, and won't go back for the offer of a free one-way trip. They are better off in Canada, and know it. Reeve MacDonald is not risking his bank account. Communist rule is something that those who have escaped it prefer to admire from a distance.

PEACHES AND CREAMS

Australian News
During the war, when oils essential to the manufacture of cosmetics were hard to get, an Adelaide (Australian) man found that the kernels of peaches and apricots possessed an oil which, when extracted, makes a perfect base for the manufacture of cold cream, vanishing cream, rouge and lipstick.

This season, South Australian fruit growers dried 1,700 tons of apricots from which they obtained 100 tons of stones. Soon it will be possible for the well-groomed overseas folk to possess complexions manufactured for them by the sunshine of South Australia's orchard country.

MAKE IT PUBLIC

Edmonton Journal
There will be general satisfaction with the decision of the appellate division of the Alberta supreme court that the trial of income tax prosecutions must be held in open court.

Everyone agrees that the contents of tax forms and other information given by the taxpayers to department officials, must remain confidential. But where criminal charges have been laid against anyone for concealing his income, or making fraudulent returns, the position is entirely different. Those who honestly pay their share of the burden have a right to be assured that theirs are not “getting away with anything.”

Seeds In Japan?

What are the hopes for establishing an honest ideal of democracy in Japan? Opinions vary, but a letter received recently by Rev. W. C. Gemmill, Victoria, from a Christian Japanese businessman, formerly one of his students in Japan, presents grounds for interesting speculation. An excerpt from the letter follows:

“No doubt the recent war had been a terrible and bitter experience to us, but thanks to our Lord, I and my family have been kept unhurt during and after the war, though things have been and are still in the worst condition, being confronted with many difficulties, viz., shortage of food, clothing and housing, etc.”

“Last year we had really been on the verge of starvation, but this peril was narrowly rescued by General MacArthur, the Supreme Commander of Allied Powers in Japan. He was so magnanimous to import food from America. Everybody here admires him for his great works. It is a matter of great regret that almost every church in Tokyo has been burnt down by bomb fire in 1945. We cannot blame the Allied forces for this outcome, but we have to blame our militarists and their co-operators who led our country to this unprecedented miserable condition. We have to brace ourselves to reconstruct the new democratic Japan, for which purpose our people are working hard.”

Britain To Ratify Pact With Poland

LONDON (Reuter)—Foreign Secretary Bevin announced in the House of Commons today that the British government has decided to ratify the Anglo-Polish financial agreement to facilitate resumption of trade between Britain and Poland.

Bevin said he had recommended this step to the government as a result of talks with Polish Prime Minister Josef Cyrankiewicz, whom he saw on his way back from the recent Moscow Foreign Ministers' Conference.

Reaffirming his recent statement urging Poles to return to their own country to aid in reconstruction, Bevin said he now was convinced Poland needed all Poles who were able to go back. The Polish government was genuinely anxious for their return.

Underground Wires Planned For Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Electric wires in the Toronto business section will be placed underground and 12,000 wooden poles eliminated from city streets in a program to be started "almost immediately" by the Toronto

Hydro-Electric Commission, provided the Ontario Commission consents to establishment of a reserve fund for this purpose. Mayor R. H. Saunders announced Sunday night.

The mayor estimated the program would cost the city $3,168,000 and the Toronto Hydro between $22,000,000 and $23,000,000.

Roebuck Approves Plan For Settlers

OTTAWA (CP)—The Senate's special committee on immigration, currently the country's No. 1 forum for discussion of this question, has no intention of abandoning its study now that the government has announced its new policy.

Senator Arthur Roebuck, Lib., Ontario, prime force behind the committee and harsh critic of what he was called an "inhuman" government attitude, is satisfied with the changes opening Canada's doors to "some thousands" of refugees and to whole families related to guaranteeing Canadians. Both these steps have been urged strongly by senators.

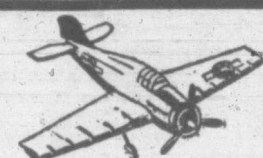

Senator Roebuck says, however, that "immigration is a continuing problem, one that can well come under constant review. For the time being, I consider these changes highly satisfying."

G.M. Plant Hums Again

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP)—Employees of General Motors' west plant, including the body room, returned to work at 7 a.m. today, ending a tie-up which made 2,000 employees of the big motor factory idle.

The break followed a dispute in the passenger car body room when 250 workers quit in protest over an alleged company speed-up plan. The company subsequently said it was forced to close down.

Settlement followed workers' agreement to return to the old system of 23 units an hour in the body room and increase it during the day to 24 units an hour.

Also aboard the ship, but a little more taciturn, was a group of three Russian diplomats en route to New York on "official business." They did not elaborate. Leader of the group was Nicholas Soultzky, Consul of the Foreign Office of the U.S.S.R. A second member of the group interpreted the few words of Soultzky, who can not speak English.

Twelve members of the Polish forces were aboard the Aquitania. Five are to remain in Canada, while the remainder are going to the United States.

Of the group of displaced persons, 22 are going to Toronto and the remainder to Montreal and western Canada. Farmers, blacksmiths, tailors and forestry experts; the group's average age is 30. Only one married couple is included.

One of the women, Toba Trefler, rolled up her sleeve and showed the identification mark A14150 on her arm—a reminder of days in Oswiecim and Belsen camps. Through an interpreter she said she had been the fourth person to acquire that marking. Three previous owners had been cremated in the camp's gas ovens.

A dressmaker, she is going to Toronto to live with her brother. The six other members of the family died during the war in the Treblinka concentration camp near Lublin.

NAME KEPT SECRET

A 45-year-old Polish Ukrainian who would not permit use of his name for fear of reprisals against relatives said he was "very, very, very glad" to be in Canada. He would never go back. Now he was headed for Edmonton, where a brother lives.

The displaced persons were chosen from British and U.S. occupation zones of Germany after receiving medical and intelligence tests and other screening by Canadian field officers. The group was escorted by John H. Legis of the inter-governmental committee on refugees.

A group of 50 British citizens, coming to live with relatives in Canada, was aboard the liner.

Tanana River Ice Broke Up Saturday

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—

As breathless watchers lined the banks, the Tanana River ice pack broke up with a grinding roar at 5:33 p.m. Saturday, bringing fortunes to seven lucky guessers who participated in the record $140,000 pool.

Each of the seven winners, five of whom are from Fairbanks, will receive $20,000.

Thousands of persons from Alaska, Canada and the United States enter guesses each year on the hour, minute and second the ice pack will go out.

The time is recorded on a special clock, to which is attached a wire leading to a stake driven in the frozen river at the village of Nenana.

A.M.G. Says Many Germans 'Racists'

BERLIN (AP)—The American Military Government at the week-end reported a public opinion survey indicating that 39 per cent of Germans in its zone are anti-Semitic and 22 per cent are "racists."

Nineteen per cent were recorded as nationalists and 20 per cent as having little bias. The survey was based on answers to questions put to 3,145 persons.

Officials said women were "markedly more biased" than men against Jews and that persons "who attended church regularly were shown to be more prejudiced than those who attended irregularly."

The military government said it was planning "a positive and well-directed effort to teach racial tolerance in German schools."

Canada Not Naming Envoy To Vatican

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government is understood to have shelved, for the time being, the recurrent suggestion that Canada appoint a diplomatic representative to the Vatican.

It has been stated in government quarters that the appointment of a minister to the Vatican by Canada would not be a precedent as Britain has had a diplomatic representative there for a number of years. At present, Canada's approach to the Vatican, where necessary, is made through the British Foreign Office.

It is likely that Canada, with a substantial Roman Catholic population, will eventually appoint a representative to the Vatican, but possibly not for several years.

The report that the government had shelved this idea also puts at rest recent rumors that Jean Desy, Canadian Ambassador to Brazil, will be given the appointment. It now is said no immediate change is contemplated in the Brazilian post.

Sunday afternoon a wild rumor surged through Vancouver that Mr. McGeer had died here. A fast check through the wire of the Canadian Press showed that Senator McGeer, in hospital here for a rest and check-up, was very much alive.

"Dead—not me," the mayor laughed. "I'll be around for a long time yet."

Bronx Pilot Lands On Manhattan Parkway

NEW YORK (AP)—A Bronx flier, piloting a rented plane with a 20-year-old ballet dancer as a passenger, made a forced landing in a busy Manhattan thoroughfare Sunday night because of engine trouble—and promptly received a police summons for going so without a permit.

The pilot, John M. Jewett, 23, told police he had been cruising over Manhattan and the Bronx for 20 minutes when the engine developed trouble. He said he dived in an unsus-cessful attempt to eliminate the trouble and, spotting a break in automobile traffic on the Henry Hudson Parkway, landed the craft on a grassy strip in the centre of the thoroughfare.

Neither Jewett nor his passenger, Pauline Goddard of Manhattan, was hurt.

A policeman handed Jewett a summons for landing without a permit from the parks commissioner, who has jurisdiction over parkways.

Radio Personalities

By FLORENCE LARINDE

The instant success which Ferruccio Tagliavini has achieved as a singer was almost made impossible by the tenor himself. For it was against his will and due only to the persistence of his father, who recognized his son's talent, that Tagliavini became an opera singer at all.

Tagliavini—he will make his second guest appearance on Telephone Hour May 19—did not want to be a singer. Rather, the old familiar tale of the parent who did everything to prevent a son from having a career in the theatre was completely reversed here. Using a trick, his father convinced him to take a trip to Parma and there steered him to the conservatory, where auditions were being held. The father pleaded with him to take an audition, and the son finally assented.

Others had spent years studying for such an opportunity, but it was Tagliavini, completely unprepared, who won first honors. In deference to his father, he remained to study, but not for long. His interest in engineering was stronger than in music, and he soon returned home.

Military service put an end, at least temporarily, to the family quarrel about Ferruccio's future career. Back in mufti a few years later, Tagliavini was again persuaded by his father to enter a voice competition, and won first prize. He realized finally that this was his career—and became an opera singer.

Success in Italy was great, and letters from enthusiastic servicemen to their families back home preceded him to America. His appearance in Chicago last season confirmed advance reports, and the Metropolitan Opera followed Chicago's lead and engaged him as a leading tenor. His success there this season was immediate. So, too, was his first appearance in February on the Telephone Hour.

Music lovers will have the opportunity of hearing Tagliavini in duet with his wife Pia Assinari, soprano, a star in her own right, on the scheduled May broadcast.

As a youngster here in Victoria, Bernard Deaville had first-hand opportunity to learn about broadcasting—his father operated a private station here.

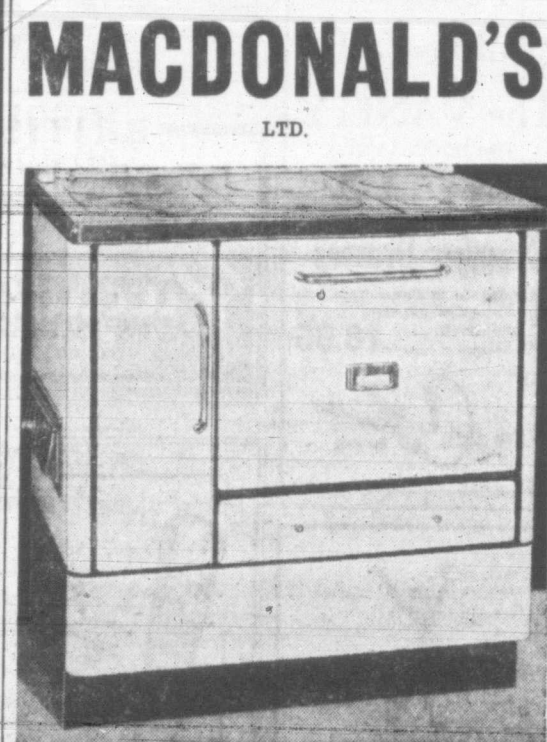

The CBC producer-to-be recalls he spent most of his spare time around his father's studios and while in high school used to do his homework between shifts at the transmitter.

In 1932, Deaville—very nervous at the prospect—uttered his first words over the air. He had just three lines to say in a radio drama and recalls that he was "in a stew" until the performance was over.

Undaunted by his experience, Deaville was convinced that broadcasting was the work for him, so much so in fact that in due course he managed to realize an ambition to become a regular announcer and newscaster.

With increasing experience, Deaville found himself handling a variety of assignments such as musical shows, special events and sports commentaries. Then, in 1940, he joined the CBC as an announcer at station CBK in Vancouver, Saskatchewan.

Within the same year Deaville had made his entry into radio production work by way of a transfer to Winnipeg as a program assistant.

WOMAN SHOULD NOT MOURN REST OF LIFE AND SHOULD ACCEPT NEW LOVE

A woman in her early twenties, who has a child of four, writes me that her husband was killed in the late war. During the years in which he was away fighting to defend his country and in the sad ones that have followed since his loss, she lived the life of a recluse, going nowhere, taking no part in social affairs; but now that time has mercifully laid its healing hand upon her hurt heart, she has begun to go back into the world again.

There she has met a fine man who offers her the love she craves, companionship, financial security and his help in rearing her child. All would be well except that this girl widow's father-in-law and mother-in-law are shocked and horrified at the thought of her re-marrying. They feel that it is a desecration of their son's memory, and that she should spend the balance of her life weeping with them over his grave. And as she loves the old people very dearly and hates to add one iota to their grief, she does not know what to do, and if loyalty to the unknowing dead requires the sacrifice of the living.

Many another young war widow is facing this same problem, and to them I would say, with all the earnestness that I can command, not to let themselves become the victims of a morbid sense of duty and feel that because Fate has dealt them one crucial blow that they must never recover from it. For their tears can work no miracle that can bring back those they have lost. They can only sear deeper the hearts of those who shed them and cast a black shadow over the happiness of others.

JOY IN MORNING

In His wisdom and mercy God never intended that we should never rise above our sorrows. If He did not save us from knowing the bitterness of despair. He softened it by giving us hope. He spanned our tears with the rainbow that gave us back joy and laughter and made the world worth living again. For it is written in the Good Book: "Weeping may endure for the night, but joy cometh in the morning." And that was a promise that has been kept.

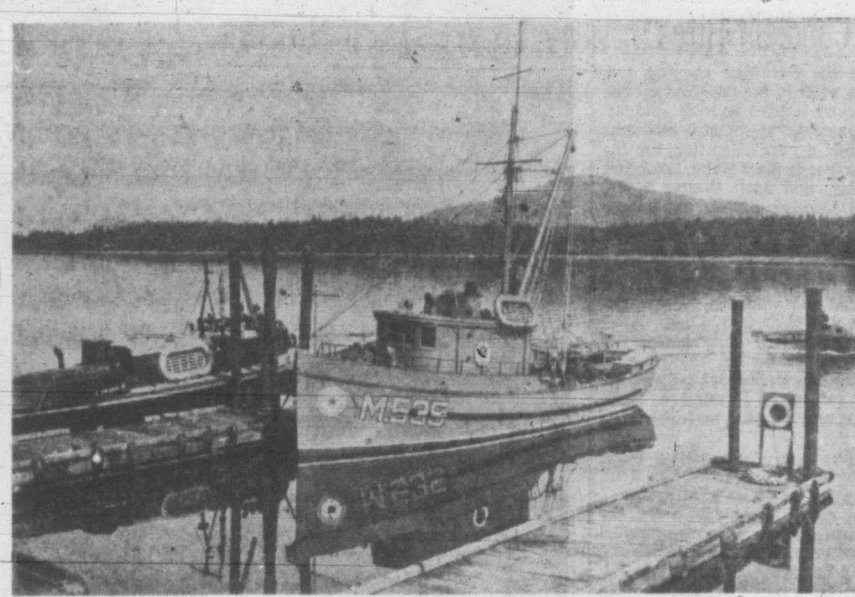

DISMAL FUTURE

Certainly this would be a dismal world if we turned it into a graveyard by everyone making a fetish of his sorrow. Yet, many take a pride in not "getting over" a bereavement. They deny themselves comforts that they need to put up costly monuments over their dead. They sown themselves in mourning that is an ever-present reminder of their loss. They read depressing books and would consider it a sacrilege to go to see a cheerful play. They cultivate their grief until they make it a religion.

Chief among those who suffer from this obsession are the lonely widows and widowers whose jealous husbands and wives have wrung from them a promise that they will never remarry. And all to no purpose, for certainly it to be the last Viceroy and Vicereine of India!

Godfrey Winn, British lecturer and commentator, explained that Britishers are able to endure their rigid rationing because they know the laws apply to rich and poor alike. In support of this, Winn told the following story: "In London, recently, I went to spend the evening with some friends of mine. As I entered their living-room I found my hostess on her knees lighting a fire. She turned to greet me with a smile—and a shiver. The room was icy cold. 'Never mind,' she said, 'we can have a fire all evening, because, you see, neither Dickie nor I had a bath this morning!' Dickie and I were Lord and Lady Mountbatten, who shortly afterwards were to be called upon.

cannot add to the felicity of saints in glory if they can know that they have doomed their mates to 30 or 40 years of bleak misery by their selfishness.

In His wisdom and mercy God never intended that we should never rise above our sorrows. If He did not save us from knowing the bitterness of despair. He softened it by giving us hope. He spanned our tears with the rainbow that gave us back joy and laughter and made the world worth living again. For it is written in the Good Book: "Weeping may endure for the night, but joy cometh in the morning." And that was a promise that has been kept.

DISMAL FUTURE

Certainly this would be a dismal world if we turned it into a graveyard by everyone making a fetish of his sorrow. Yet, many take a pride in not "getting over" a bereavement. They deny themselves comforts that they need to put up costly monuments over their dead. They sown themselves in mourning that is an ever-present reminder of their loss. They read depressing books and would consider it a sacrilege to go to see a cheerful play. They cultivate their grief until they make it a religion.

Chief among those who suffer from this obsession are the lonely widows and widowers whose jealous husbands and wives have wrung from them a promise that they will never remarry. And all to no purpose, for certainly it to be the last Viceroy and Vicereine of India!

Godfrey Winn, British lecturer and commentator, explained that Britishers are able to endure their rigid rationing because they know the laws apply to rich and poor alike. In support of this, Winn told the following story: "In London, recently, I went to spend the evening with some friends of mine. As I entered their living-room I found my hostess on her knees lighting a fire. She turned to greet me with a smile—and a shiver. The room was icy cold. 'Never mind,' she said, 'we can have a fire all evening, because, you see, neither Dickie nor I had a bath this morning!' Dickie and I were Lord and Lady Mountbatten, who shortly afterwards were to be called upon.

great misfortune to lose her husband, it is easier for her to submit to her sorrow than it is to fight it. Her dream is shattered. Her romance ended. But she is wise if she gathers her courage together and goes bravely forth to face a new life that may have it a joy even greater than she has known.

For the sun rises even after the darkest night.

Coles-Holm Vows In Candlelit Rites

In the Saturday evening twilight, at First Baptist Church, rich glow of lighted candles and arrangements of colorful blossoms formed a perfect setting for the marriage of Elsie Holm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Holm, 1600 Quadra Street, to Ronald Clyde Coles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Coles, 3120 Harriet Road.

Rev. G. R. Easter performed the ceremony for which R. Stout played the wedding music. Soloist was Miss G. Phillips.

A hand-made embroidered veil held by gardenias, misted over the bride's traditional satin gown, the full skirt forming a train. Pearl earrings and necklace, gifts of the groom were her only jewelry, and she carried a white Bible topped gardenias. Mr. Holm gave his daughter in marriage.

In colorful contrast were the picturesque gowns worn by bridal attendants, Miss Alice Stevenson, maid of honor, in turquoise taffeta; bridesmaid Sylvia Abbott in pink net; junior bridesmaids, sisters of the bride and groom, Miss Tena Holm in pastel yellow net over satin, and Miss Shirley Coles in pale orchid net over satin. All carried Colonial bouquets.

Small nieces of the bride, Susan Young, in pale green net over taffeta, and Marilyn Young, in pink net over taffeta, acted as flower girl and train-bearer, respectively.

Ray Van Druten acted as best man, and ushers were Ron Castner, Eric Coles and Bill Pimley.

At the home of the bride's parents, the young couple assisted by their mothers, received guests before the fireplace, banked with spring flowers and greenery. G. Reynolds proposed the toast to the bride.

For a wedding trip to Vancouver, the bride wore a three-piece teal blue suit accented with white accessories and pink hat. Mr. and Mrs. Coles will reside in Victoria.

Campaigning To Remove Moslem Women's Veils

BELGRADE (AP)—Dr. Nedzad Agolli, Minister of Social Welfare in Yugoslav Macedonia, started a campaign today for removal of veils by Moslem women.

"The veil hampers the development of Moslem women and separates them from social life," he said, adding that the veil would keep women from active work in the new five-year plan.

The people of Macedonia are largely of Turkish origin.

Officers Learn Scottish Dances

Lt.-Col. R. D. Travis and Mrs. Travis, with officers of the Canadian Scottish Regiment, honor members of the regiment, their wives and friends, gathered in the officers' mess at the Armories on Saturday night for a final session in a series of lessons in Scottish dancing.

Commenced early in the new year, these lessons have continued every Saturday night under the instruction of Mrs. Colin Rutherford, assisted by her husband, Capt. Rutherford.

Foursomes, eightsomes, the Caledonian and Dashing White Sergeant, have been practiced enthusiastically and were danced on Saturday evening with ease and grace. A "sixteensome," arranged especially by Mrs. Rutherford in honor of the regiment, was a great favorite with the dancers who whirled and stepped in perfect rhythm to the music.

For dancing officers wore kilts and kachhi shirts. In most instances their ladies also wore kilts and white sports blouses.

Included in the group who have attended classes with Lt.-Col. Travis and Mrs. Travis are: Brig. and Mrs. John Rockingham, Maj. and Mrs. K. Crabtree, Maj. and Mrs. R. P. Thompson, Maj. Harry Henderson, Maj. R. H. Tye, Capt. and Mrs. H. Grey, Capt. and Mrs. H. S. C. Archibald, Capt. and Mrs. D. Stephens, Capt. and Mrs. A. McFarlane, Capt. and Mrs. S. J. McDonald, Capt. and Mrs. McDonnell, Lieut. and Mrs. C. E. Blaney, Lieut. and Mrs. Paterson, Lieut. and Mrs. C. Milton, Lieut. and Mrs. S. Digby, Lieut. and Mrs. Colin Peter, Lieut. and Mrs. S. E. ## Antique Lace Fan Sets Theme For Christ Church Wedding

An antique French lace fan trimmed with gardenias and red rosebuds gave an old-world atmosphere to the period gown of broad satin with silk net yoke embroidered in seed pearls, off-the-shoulder neckline and flared peplum over the full hoopskirt with long train, worn by Saturday's bride, Muriel Isabel Gert-rude Roberts for her marriage to Earl Ferguson Piper.

All-white blossoms and greenery decorated Christ Church Cathedral for the early evening ceremony performed by Dean Spencer H. Elliot.

The bride, whose illusion net veil cascaded from a crown of seed pearls, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Roberts, 1494 Ocean View Road. Her groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip J. Piper, of Nanaimo.

Similar full-skirted gowns of sky-blue taffeta, with off-the-shoulder necklines were worn by Miss Dorothy Roberts who attended her sister as maid of honor; Miss Lillian Roberts, another sister; Miss Beryl Piper, sister of the groom; and Miss Iris Linquist.

HISTORIC MEDICAL HIGHLIGHTS

No. 1

Jupiter and the Symbol

The origin of that familiar drug store symbol goes back 2,000 years when physicians of ancient Rome would invoke Jupiter's aid by placing the "Jupiter sign" on their prescriptions. This sign looked roughly like a numeral four, and is distinguishable in the modern pharmacy symbol coupled with an "R," standing for the Latin word "recipe." This means "I take"—or, "recipe." The latter word is accurately descriptive, for that is what your doctor does when he writes a prescription.

Painstaking, scientific accuracy has supplanted an appealing to Jupiter. Our modern methods of compounding prescriptions leave nothing to chance. Every detail is up to rigid, high standards.

George Laramée Observes 110th Birthday 'Quietly'

Centenarian waves reporters goodbye, invites them to see him again next year.

Today, May 5, is George Laramée's birthday. He is 110 years old.

Mr. Laramée, who lives with Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Jones, 1016 Bewdley Avenue, Esquimalt, told reporters he was going to celebrate his birthday "very quietly this year."

He still takes a great interest in current events. "I can't see to read the papers any more but I get the news from the radio."

He said his poor vision prevented him from going out much but he was feeling fine anyway.

He said his diet was largely restricted to liquids. "Soups and things," he explained. When asked if he had any favorite food, he answered: "Sure. I like ice cream."

Mr. Laramée, a French Canadian, has been a miner, prospector and lumberman. "I have worked in mines in Canada, Alaska and the States too," he said.

Mr. Laramée said when he had been in Alaska he had gone farther north than any white man previously. "I went to the last north outpost and set out from there," he said. "I was gone for a month."

Mr. Laramée was born in a small village about 35 miles from Montreal. His father was an architect. The family moved to Joliette when George was four and later moved to Montreal where George grew up. Mr. Laramée said he first visited Victoria in 1867.

He has lived with Mr. and Mrs. Jones for five years now, and helps Mrs. Jones with the housework. Every night he dries the dinner dishes.

Mr. Laramée, who claims he is a cousin of the late Sir Wilfred Laurier, Canadian statesman and Liberal leader, is reputed to be the oldest citizen in the Dominion.

This morning Mr. Laramée received wires of congratulation from Premier John Hart and R. W. Mayhew, M.P.

Hundreds Of Visitors Arrive For Spring Garden-Festival

Hundreds of visitors from the mainland and the United States are in the city for Victoria's annual Spring Garden Festival, which opened today under the auspices of the Victoria Horticultural Society and the Vancouver Island Rock and Alpine Garden Society.

The Spring Garden Week will afford an opportunity to many of these visitors, who are also members of various horticultural societies, to rub shoulders with local garden enthusiasts and at the same time enjoy viewing some of the city's best private gardens.

The gardens are now at their prime, the results of weeks of preparation entailing many hours of work. Flowers, shrubs and trees are now in full bloom—a riot of color and beauty.

Although gardens will be open each day until May 10 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., the conducted bus tours will take place only as follows: Empress Hotel at 9 in the morning, returning at 12:30, and in the afternoon at 2, returning at 5:30.

Today hundreds of visitors visited seaside gardens at Cadboro Bay and Ten Mile Point, as well as gardens of old Esquimalt and Saanich districts. Eleven gardens were visited in all.

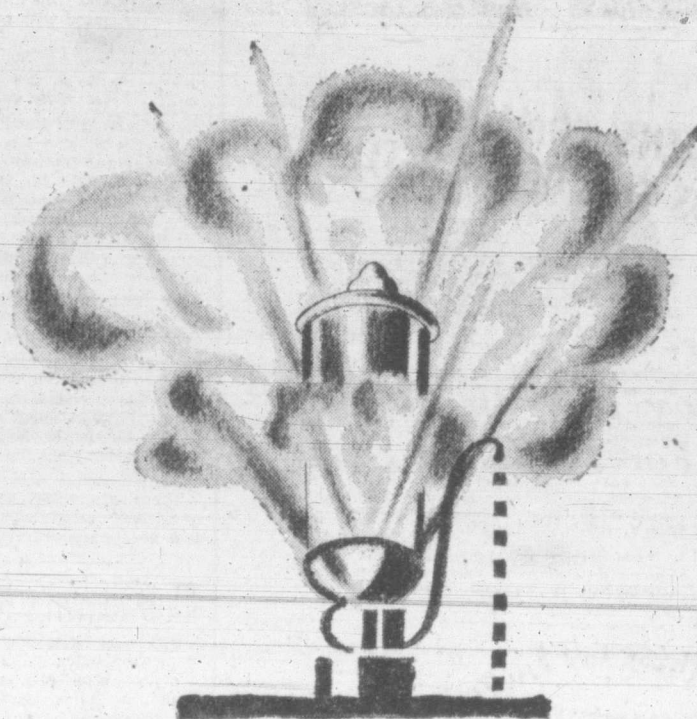

On Tuesday morning buses will leave the Empress Hotel to visit five seaside gardens of Oak Bay. The gardens opened for inspection are E. N. Liersch, 237 King George Terrace; J. G. Worth, 273 King George Terrace; E. D. Todd, "Dainhurst," 508 Island Road; Mrs. Gordon Hepburn, 1069 Beach Drive, and Mrs. H. R. Beaven, 1176 Beach Drive.

In the afternoon there will be visits to gardens of the Uplands. They are R. W. Mayhew, 3125 Beach Drive; S. Stephen, 3155 Beach Drive; R. H. Edgell, 3230 Beach Drive; G. A. Yardley, 3285 Weald Road; G. S. Brown, 3320 Weald Road.

This evening at 8, Dr. John A. Hanley, editor, Northwest Gardens and Homes, Seattle, will present his "Tour of English Gardens" with colored slide illustrations in the Empress ballroom.

CITIZENS' COMMITTEE SEEKS JOBS FOR OLDER VETERANS

In at April 1st, according to figures of the National Employment Service there were older veterans registered for employment but unemployed. Many have served in the two great wars. Others fought only in World War One but made a real contribution to victory in Canada's war industry.

Now these men are finding it difficult to locate peace-time employment. The Citizens' Rehabilitation Committee, in co-operation with the Department of Veterans Affairs and the National Employment Service is attempting to place them.

The co-operation of all is needed. The committee, in many cases, seeks positions not requiring great skill, but with integrity and willingness to work the important considerations. Many, however, have excellent peace-time experience and will prove efficient employees.

If you can place an older veteran, please notify the Citizens' Rehabilitation Committee, or list the opening with the National Employment Service.

These are FACTS

- Surveys show workers' most productive years are between 45 and 54.
- Figures prove older workers less liable to industrial accidents requiring compensation payments.
- Increased cost for group insurance not great. Difference between worker aged 25 and worker aged 40 is $1.58 per $1,000 of insurance per year.
- Increased cost not great in normal pension plans. Employers' average payment for worker hired at age 25 is 5 per cent — for one at age 40 is 7 1/2 per cent.

There are 326 older veterans unemployed in Victoria. The Citizens' Rehabilitation Committee, the National Employment Service and the Department of Veterans Affairs, are making a concerted effort to cut this total. If you can employ an older veteran, list your opening with the Citizens' Rehabilitation Committee or with the National Employment Service.

M. J. Insull Dies; Collapse Of Utilities Company Recalled

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP)—Former active head of a $2,000,000,000 United States financial empire which collapsed with huge losses in 1932, Martin John Insull died in a hospital here Sunday — as quietly as he had lived since the crash of the huge organization built up by himself and his elder brother Samuel.

Martin Insull was 77. He never surrendered his British citizenship—he and his brother were born in Reading, Eng., and went to the United States in 1887. Since he was finally cleared in 1935 of charges resulting from the failure of the Middle West Utilities Company of Chicago he had lived in obscurity in a rest home here.

He had entered the Soldiers' Memorial Hospital in this small town 80 miles north of Toronto one week ago. His wife died two years ago.

Martin Insull was long an associate of his brother Samuel, who died some years ago, in construction of the vast utilities edifice which collapsed into receivership in 1932. Martin was senior vice-president for 12 years and actively in charge of operations.

Both Martin and Samuel left Chicago when the crash came and the United States government had a long fight to return Martin from Canada and Samuel from Europe. Canadian authorities contended there was no proof of criminal conspiracy by the younger Insull, but finally yielded him to custody of U.S. authorities in March, 1934, Samuel was captured, at Smyrna.

Sam Insull first was tried on charges of mail fraud, but was acquitted by a Cook County jury at Chicago in 1934, and freed in June, 1935. The state then dropped similar charges against Martin Insull.

Hollywood

WHAT THEY REALLY DO IN RIO

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — I've finally discovered what they do on a rainy night in Rio.

Gorgeous Goldwyn girl Martha Montgomery gave the answer and then ducked. She said, "They put up umbrellas."

Martha is one of the six Goldwyn girls, all equally as gorgeous, who just returned from a nine-week good will tour of South America. The good will was for Samuel Goldwyn, her boss, about to release a new movie, "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty."

It seems all Goldwyn girls do these days is travel. They went to New York. They made a tour of the U.S. They went to England. Now they're just back from South America, for a total of 50,000 miles of "good-willing."

Martha obviously did rather well in the good will department for herself, too. She confided, "I got at least two marriage proposals in every country. And I've been to a lot of countries."

"But," she added, "'No' means the same in any language."

Martha is from Clarksdale, Miss. South Americans favor blondes. So Martha did all right.

TAKE PAPA'S ADVICE

The two girls met a lot of South American millionaires who weren't interested in Sam Goldwyn but who were interested in the Goldwyn girls. One celebrated arrival of their plane in Lima, Peru, by shooting off a revolver. The local gendarmes disarmed him and marched him off to jail to sober up.

Another wealthy playboy disguised himself as a waiter and served them a seven-course dinner in Chile, revealing his identity along with the dessert.

But the girls promised Papa Goldwyn not to accept any dates. They didn't either, Martha said, except once. "We sneaked away from the trip manager and went to a costume ball. But nothing exciting happened."

VARIETY OF ROLES

John Sutton just completed a role in "Captain From Castile" and has gone to work for Eagle Lion in "Captain Casanova."

"Captain From Castile" was filmed in Mexico, and John played the heavy. "Captain Casanova" will be filmed in Mexico, and John will play the heavy.

In "Castile" John attacks the hero, Ty Power, and leaves him dead. In "Casanova" he attacks the hero, Arturo de Cordova, and leaves him dead. In both pictures John does a lot of duelling and finally is killed himself. In both pictures he wears a beard.

That's what I like about Hollywood. If an actor doesn't like his role in one picture, he can play the same role in another picture.

New York-Toronto Record By 'Bombshell'

NEW YORK (AP)—Capt. William Odom, 25-year-old ex-U.S. army flier who piloted Milton Reynolds' "Bombshell" on its unofficial record-breaking trip around the world last month, made a flight from New York to Toronto and returned Sunday and bettered on each trip what he said was the fastest previous time for airplanes between the two cities.

Alone at the controls of the "Bombshell," a twin-engined converted A-26 bomber, Odom flew from New York to Toronto in one hour and 15 minutes, he said, and on the return trip made it in one hour and 10 minutes.

Odom said the fastest previous time for a New York-Toronto flight was one hour and 29 minutes, which he said was made by "a Canadian air line."

The pilot said he made the trip to Toronto "just to have a talk with Reynolds," who was in Toronto on a business trip.

U.B.C. Professor Dies

VANCOUVER (CP)—Paul A. Boving, professor emeritus of agronomy at the University of British Columbia, died in hospital here Saturday after a long illness. He was 75.

A native of Sweden, Professor Boving came to Canada in 1910 and was on the staff of the Macdonald Agricultural College, Quebec, for five years before accepting the professorship of agronomy at U.B.C. In 1919 he was made head of the department and served in that capacity until 1938.

An outstanding lecturer, Professor Boving also made valuable contributions to agronomy in the field of genetics and plant breed-

Over and above economic and security advantages, an alliance, say the rank-and-file citizens, would enhance the prestige of France and foster rather than prevent settlement of the European political situation.

The French Institute of Public Opinion (Gallup Poll) consulted an accurate cross-section of voters, asking the question:

"Do you favor or oppose a political and military alliance with Great Britain?"

Only 18% of the voters expressed disapproval: Favor 59%, oppose 18% undecided 23%.

The same representative voters were then asked:

"In your opinion, what advantages could France gain from such an alliance?"

Replies to this question reveal a broad range of popular interest in the practical values of collaboration: Provide military security 26%, economic and financial improvements 25%, foster political settlement of France 5%, gain prestige for France 4%, foster political settlement of Europe 3%.

In contrast, only 1% felt that an alliance would be a step towards war, and only 1% feared it would add any further strain to relations with Soviet Russia.

INDIANS SOMETIMES TREATED THEIR PRISONERS WITH KINDNESS

In pioneer days there was great fear among the settlers of being captured by Indians. If a man was made a prisoner, he might be put to the torture, perhaps burned at the stake.

In the tribal wars, there was danger for captives whether they were whites or natives. Many a warrior died after being taken by the enemy—sometimes suffering a blow from a tomahawk instead of death at the stake. It was a widespread custom for warriors to show the enemy that they were strong and tough, and would never cry out in pain regardless of how much they might be hurt.

Cruel treatment of prisoners took place all too often, but there were many cases of the other kind. When children were captured, it was common for them to be adopted by families in the enemy tribe. This happened, at times, to white children, both boys and girls. Among the persons captured by Indians at Deerfield, Mass., in 1704, was the little daughter of the Rev. John Williams. She was adopted into the tribe and was treated so well that she stayed with it even when she was offered a chance for freedom after she grew up.

The first warrior to lay hands on an enemy in battle could have him as a personal prisoner, and could do with him what he liked. It was well to choose a kind-hearted warrior to capture you—if you had to be captured and if you had any choice about the matter!

Some captives were put through tests to see how well they could stand pain. In eastern parts of this continent they were placed inside a circle made by their enemies, and stayed there while a dance went on around them.

The Iroquois, also several Algonquin tribes, had the custom of making prisoners "run the gauntlet." Members of the tribe would stand in two long lines, a few feet apart, and the captive would try to run between them. If he was able to get to the other end, despite the blows which were rained on him, or if he was able to reach a certain post or the hut of the chief, he was looked on as a brave man.

A prisoner who ran the gauntlet with success was likely to be adopted by the tribe.

Northey's Two Homers Mark Cardinals Win

It began to look today like old Sam Breadon, president of St. Louis Cardinals, had been reading up on Redbird pennant history when he made that Harry Walker for Ron Northey deal with Philadelphia Phillies Saturday.

If he did thumb through the baseball record books he probably discovered that nearly every year the Cards won a flag, they were aided by a refugee from Philadelphia who had joined the club earlier in the season.

Take 1943 for instance. The Cards gave up three players to the Phillies for outfielder Danny Litwhiler who proceeded to clout a dozen homers to help the Cards win the pennant.

In the winter of 1933, Breadon obtained catcher Virgil (Spud) Davis from Philadelphia in exchange for Jimmy Wilson and Spud helped the Cards win the title in '34 by hitting 300 and catching 107 games.

Grover Alexander, another former Philadelphia star, helped the Cards capture their first pennant.

And now comes Northey. The hard-hitting outfielder made a brilliant debut yesterday when he slugged two home runs and a single and batted in four runs to lead the Cards to a 9 to 0 victory in the second game of a doubleheader with the Braves at Boston. Braves had whipped them 4 to 3 in the first game and the whiteash broke Cards' nine-game losing streak.

REDS DROP PAIR
In the only other National League clash, the Phillies clouted Cincinnati twice, 5 to 3 and 10 to 5, to dump the Reds into seventh place while taking over fifth themselves. Bobby Feller discovered that even he can't work with only one day's rest. But the Nats climbed all over him for four runs to win 6 to 3 and hang a defeat on Feller.

Eagles, Pitzer And Nex In Opening Day Ball Triumphs

Rosy McLellan's young Pitzer and Nex baseball nine, and Gar Taylor's Eagles stole the spotlight in the opening games of the Senior Amateur League Saturday as they registered one-sided wins over Royal Canadian Navy and Canadian Legion, 12 to 4 and 14 to 9, respectively.

Youthful Murray MacArthur, ace of the Mount View High School pitching staff, made his first start in senior company an auspicious one as he struck out 14 sailors in the evening contest, while his mates blasted three Navy hurlers.

In registering his initial win in the senior league MacArthur was only in trouble in one inning, the fifth, when Navy bunched three singles and took advantage of two errors by centerfielder Charlton to push across their four runs. The gasmen broke loose for six runs in the first inning on four singles, and a pair of walks by pitcher Tivy. They added one more in the second and sewed up the game in the fourth with a four-run outburst.

Mann and Gainer who followed Tivy on the hill for the sailors were as wild as their predecessor and issued a total of eight free passes. Pitzer and Nex ran wild on the bases, pilfering no less than 15.

LEGION BEATEN
Starting pitcher Frank Scroggs of the defending champions, Canadian Legion, failed to last in his first start of the season, but he was the victim of some questionable support on the part of his mates. Stan Davies on the hill for the winners pitched steady ball.

Eagles tallied three runs in the first inning with Jimmy Morrison driving home two with his first of three successive singles. They added eight runs in the second when the Legion defence fell apart, all of the scores coming with two men out.

Mickey Smith took over in the third canto and the Eagles fell on him for three more runs to end their scoring for the afternoon. At the start of the fourth, Bob Wiegand, playing coach of the veterans, took to the mound and handcuffed the birdmen the rest of the route, giving up but one infield bingle.

Morrison and Red Sutherland were the leading sticklers of the afternoon, the latter clearing the

Spencers, Eagles Chalk Up Victories In Minor Ball Loop

Victoria Minor baseballers opened their 1947 season at Athletic Park Sunday before a good crowd, and Spencers and Eagles were returned winners in the contests over Victoria Bottle Exchange and Poodle Dog Cafe, respectively.

Spencers had little trouble in the midget, 16 and under division opener, pounding out an 11 to 5 win over the Bottlers. The juvenile division game between Eagles and Poodle Dog was decided in the seventh inning, when Eagles tallied four runs to come from behind for a 10 to 7 win.

The teams looked smart in their new uniforms and turned in some good ball for the fans.

Automobiles Tax Ferry Space As Tourist Rush Begins Here

Vanguard of what is expected to be the heaviest tourist travel year in history has already made its appearance in Victoria as transportation companies ready themselves to meet the rush.

Present difficulties in obtaining car space on Victoria-Seattle ferries will be overcome with the advent of the new Black Ball ferry Chinook to the service and the return of the C.P.R.'s Princess Kathleen to her peacetime run.

Up to now space aboard the Princess Charlotte and Princess Alice has been limited, and car reservations aboard the Iroquois have had to be made well in advance to avoid disappointment in last-minute attempts to secure passage.

Travelers have been taking advantage of the Sidney-Anacortes, Sidney-Stevedon and Nanaimo-Vancouver run to overcome this. G. A. Yardley, Collector of Customs, said today tourist travel was already beginning to increase, especially at Sidney where, he estimated, it had gone up 25 per cent over the winter level. He anticipates a record year.

Norman Foster, at the offices of the Chamber of Commerce and Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, said the volume of inquiries for reservations here is tremendous, far heavier than last year.

Under the present travel situation not all cars wanting accommodation can secure it on the night run between Victoria and Vancouver. However, R. J. Burland, C.P.R. general passenger agent, reports there is no difficulty securing accommodation on the Nanaimo-Vancouver run.

In addition, advantage is being taken of the Sidney-Stevedon service which is offering two trips a day with a total capacity of 50 cars.

Early relief for the taxed Victoria-Vancouver run is seen in the forthcoming return to service of the damaged Princess Joan, on which, it is expected, repairs will be completed before May 24.

Further accommodation for tourists will be available by June. The Princess Kathleen, now nearing the completion of her conversion from wartime troop transport at Victoria Machinery Depot Co. Ltd., is expected to be in the Victoria-Seattle run early in June, offering a daily sailing out of the U.S. port in the morning.

The Kathleen, with a 25-car capacity, is scheduled to go on the triangle run between Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle on June 22. The Charlotte will also go on the triangle service, running from Victoria to Seattle to Vancouver.

Also scheduled to be in service by June is the $2,000,000 car ferry Chinook, with a capacity of 100 cars. She will run a daily service between here and Seattle, as well as a twice daily Victoria-Port Angeles service.

Times Garden Expert Garden Week Visitor

CECIL SOLLY

Among many visiting gardeners in Victoria today for the annual Spring Garden Festival is Cecil Solly of Seattle, noted garden authority whose feature articles appear each Saturday in the Victoria Daily Times.

The garden wizard who has always been interested in the progress of private gardens in Victoria, lost no time on his arrival to visit gardens at Cadboro Bay and Ten Mile Point as well as gardens of Esquimalt and Saanich district, which are being inspected today.

Since the First Great War, when he fought first with the British troops, later transferring to the American forces, Mr. Solly has been actively engaged in gardening and today ranks as one of the leading northwest horticultural authorities.

He has won numerous awards for his individual efforts in gardening at his home in the suburb of Manchester across the sound from Seattle. Thousands of garden enthusiasts on both sides of the line listen to his radio broadcasts over KJR, Seattle.

Mr. Solly is versed in all types of gardening, ranging from the art of growing vegetables for the dinner table to growing rare and delicate flowers which require a great deal of attention and study. He has also, through experiment, introduced many foreign plants in this country, and has done a great deal of scientific research work in connection with plants.

Ask City To Employ Older Veterans

The Citizens' Rehabilitation Council has written the City Council asking for assistance in placing some of the 500 older veterans who are seeking employment in Greater Victoria.

"They don't want charity, all they ask is a right to work and play their part in their different spheres of society, which they rightly say they are entitled to," D. J. Proudfoot stated in his letter, "as they have fought in one or two wars to defend our way of living and our system of government."

He also pointed out what relief costs have been in the past for able-bodied men and women who would better be employed. He felt the problem could be solved if the three governments would absorb their share of these older men and even that the superannuation question could be worked out.

Shock When Told Of Maximum Penalty

A husband who pleaded guilty to assaulting his wife and occasioning her bodily harm was shocked this morning in city police court when Magistrate H. C. Hall informed him the maximum penalty for a conviction of this nature carried a prison sentence of five years.

"And also a whipping," Prosecutor Claude L. Harrison added.

The man's wife appeared in the witness box with a discolored left eye and said she also had bruises on an arm, her back and head.

The husband said he was sorry. His actions had been on the spur of the moment, he said. He was remanded to tomorrow for sentence.

Mrs. Raymond Alder, Hazelhurst, Wisconsin, reported to city police Sunday that a $300 yellow gold, pearl mounted brooch, was missing from her room in the Empress Hotel.

Mayor Percy George will attend the convention of the Associated Cities of Washington at Port Angeles, May 14 to 16, as the representative of the Union of B.C. Municipalities and the city of Victoria.

The Victoria Order of Eagles put on a concert at the Veterans' Hospital. George Cole was M.C. and the entertainers were: Chuck Bowes, Glen Dennstedt, Bill Bird, Tony Moore, A. L. Meugens, Frank Moore, Jack Hooker, Bert Woods, Al Sauter, Fred Schoor, Rolfe Walsh, Glenn Priestley and A. H. B. Higgs.

Joint Pension Plan For All MacMillan Workers

PORT ALBERNI—Employees of all MacMillan companies will now be able to contribute jointly with the company to secure government annuities against the day when they will "want to take things easy at retirement age," H. R. MacMillan, president of H. R. MacMillan Export Company Ltd., said in a surprise announcement of a new company pension plan at Port Alberni, Saturday night.

The occasion was the presentation of the National Safety Council's "Distinguished Service to Safety Award," North America's highest safety award reserved for outstanding achievements in the field of safety, to two of Mr. MacMillan's companies, the Alberni Pacific Lumber Company Ltd. (sawmill), and Alberni Plywoods.

More than 1,000 people packed the big R.C.E.M.E. Hall for the presentation of the awards, which recognized an extraordinary reduction in both the frequency and severity rate of accidents during 1946 as compared with 1945.

The pension plan for all his employees after they have served three years with the company was outlined by Mr. MacMillan. He said the company would pay for the employees' back service—a total of $500,000. The pension scheme, under the administration of the Canadian government, will be contributed to by both employees and employer.

COMPANY SHARES COST

"No longer will it be necessary for anyone employed in these companies to have any worry he may grow too old to work and have no income," Mr. MacMillan said. "We will jointly bear the cost."

It has been the accepted policy of the company to carry its full share of employees services and community enterprises, he said, adding that the company was pleased to contribute to the mutual benefit societies and to employee and public welfare groups.

Mr. MacMillan told the gathering the winning of the safety awards of the National Safety Council of Chicago was a conspicuous example of what could be accomplished when everyone pulled together.

"Such an example of teamwork is rare," he said. "There shall be no threat of ghost towns, no cloud of job insecurity, if we can continue to work together. It is within our power to put this delightful community on a firm and sound basis."

Accepting the scrolls of honor and the green safety pennants, from George Ennis of San Francisco, chairman of the Safety Council's western division, Mr. MacMillan turned them over to Ross Pendleton, manager of Alberni Pacific Lumber; Joe Humphrey, one of the firm's oldest employees; safety officer

Bob Eamer, Harold Dagg, manager of Alberni Plywoods; Keith Caldwell, one of the original employees, and safety officer, Robbie Macfie.

Spurring employees on to an even higher aim, was Hon. E. C. Carson, Minister of Public Works and provincial president of the St. John Ambulance Association, who was among a number of speakers.

Other speakers were: Hon. L. H. Eyres, Minister of Trade and Industry, representing Hon. George Pearson, Minister of Labor; Adam Bell, chairman of the Workmen's Compensation Board and O. A. Buck of the Truck Loggers' Association.

Jack Prescott of Vancouver, safety director of H. R. MacMillan Export Company, was chairman. Mayor W. C. Hamilton of Port Alberni and Mayor C. C. Cocks of Alberni welcomed visitors to the district and congratulated workers and management. H. J. Welch, M.L.A. for Comox, and James Mowatt, M.L.A. for Alberni, attended.

Juvenile Sentenced

The 16-year-old boy who broke into the office of R. Angus Ltd., 845 Yates Street, and tried open a filing case drawer to steal $300, was sent to the Industrial School today by Magistrate H. C. Hall in Juvenile Court. He pleaded guilty to the charge.

1946 model sedan, the property of Norman Stanley King, Mowatt Apartments, Port Alberni, which provincial police reported stolen Saturday night from the up-island town, was recovered Sunday morning in the bushes by Lover's Lane, Beacon Hill Park. R. F. Heatherington, 507 Johnson Street, reported the presence of the car in the bushes to city police.

The DOCTOR Says:

CHILD DEVELOPMENT FROM 6 TO 12

By WILLIAM A. O'BRIEN, M.D.

The role of the family physician as adviser on normal growth and development in childhood is assuming increasing importance. This is especially true of the period from 6 to 12 years when so many changes take place.

The special committee on Preventive Medicine of the Medical Society of the County of New York has prepared a manual for the guidance of physicians which covers various phases of the periodic health examination and advice to be given to patients on healthful living.

If the emotional development of a child of 5 or 6 years is normal, starting to school is great fun. Children quickly learn to understand their place in the world and to perceive the difference between group and individual behavior.

As children grow up it becomes more desirable to be clean rather than dirty, to practice modesty and to replace aggressive behavior with acts of sympathy.

Early dependence of the child from 6 to 12 upon mother for everything is replaced by a desire to do things for himself. He develops new friendships outside his home and compares his own home and parents with those of other children.

SCHOOLROOM DIFFICULTY

As children grow up they learn to like competitive games and to acquire skills. Boys organize groups and do a great deal of bragging about their ability. Girls imitate their mother with their dolls. Gradually children pass from play to work as they do real jobs in the home.

Difficulty with arithmetic or reading or other types of learning stem from anxieties of an earlier age. Lack of success in school is depressing and should not be punished; as usually it is the result of failure to make good emotional adjustments.

Sylvia Sidney Takes Beating

Sylvia Sidney takes a beating for art-literally—in her latest picture, "Mr. Ace," in which she co-stars with George Raft at the Plaza Theatre.

She plays the role of a glamorous congresswoman on the make for a governorship. And since her glamour is one of her political weapons, her pursuit of beauty is as strenuous as her pursuit of public office. And "strenuous" is the word.

"I've never been so beaten up in my life," wailed Sylvia after the first take. "Does she have to be so darn realistic?"

"This is a close shot," answered director Ed Marin. "We can't fake any soft blows. I'm afraid you'll have to take everything she's got for one more take."

'Gondoliers' Tonight

FRED COX ... "Don Alhambra"

JIM MEAD-ROBINS ... "Antonio"

These original members of the Victoria Gilbert and Sullivan Society will be seen tonight, Tuesday and Wednesday night in the popular stage production "The Gondoliers" at the Royal Theatre. The Gyro Club of Victoria is sponsoring this show and net proceeds will be given to charitable organizations. Presentation last year by the Victoria-Gilbert and Sullivan Society of "H.M.S. Pinafore" created a sensation and hundreds of people could not be accommodated. The success of that show has caused a great demand for tickets for "The Gondoliers" and only a few are left for its performances.

Custer's Last Stand Re-enacted in Film

One of the most spectacular events in United States military history—General Custer's last stand at Little Big Horn, Montana, is thrillingly re-enacted on the screen in "They Died With Their Boots On" which will be the next attraction at Rio, starting tomorrow, Errol Flynn portrays Custer in the film which is the first to deal entirely with the life of the famous soldier. Olivia De Havilland, Flynn's lovely co-star in so many previous adventure films, played the role of Elizabeth Bacon, who became Mrs. Custer.

'Best Years Of Our Lives' Held Over

"The Best Years of Our Lives," starring Frederic March and Myrna Loy is held over at the Oak Bay Theatre.

March plays a banker. Far from being a conversational, conservative banker, he revels in good times, and is often the despair of his lovely wife, played by Miss Loy. His comedy high spot is when he attends a bankers' dinner and, fortified with wine, gives them some original and startling ideas on banking.

'Till End Of Time' Showing At Atlas

One of the timeliest subjects of the post war era is presented in RKO Radio's new romance, "Till the End of Time" currently at the Atlas Theatre. A screen version of Niven Busch's best-selling novel, "They Dream of Home," the drama stars Dorothy McGuire, Guy Madison, Robert Mitchum and Bill Williams. Story revolves around the efforts of three honorably discharged Marines to readjust themselves to civilian life.

"Russia on Parade" is the feature attraction this week at the York Theatre.

Home Runs Give Rainiers Split With Los Angeles

The two pre-season favorites—Los Angeles and San Francisco—were running one-two as the Coast League paused momentarily today before plunging into its second full month of baseball play.

The Angels' lead was whittled to one game over the week-end as the defending champion Seals took three games from Portland while Los Angeles won only one while dropping two to, last-place Seattle.

The Seals made it six out of seven for the Portland series by sinking the Beavers, 5 to 4 and 2 to 1 yesterday. Bones-Sanders' 410-foot homer off Tommy Bridges gave Bob Joyce the first game victory, while ace rookie Bob Chesnes edged Jake Mooney in the nightcap duel.

Elmer Mallory's homer, double and triple gave Red Lyon a 3 to 2 nod over Seattle in the opener, but the Rainiers came back strong to take the Sunday nightcap 8 to 4. Home runs by pitcher Bill Posedel and Lou Novikoff highlighted the Rainiers' six-run assault on young Don Carlsen in the sixth inning.

Sacramento's third ranking Solons and the Oakland Acorns exchanged wins, with the Solons slugging out a 16 to 3 win in the opener and Oaks returning to take the finale 6 to 1.

Six circuit clouts—two of them by San Diego's Max West—enlivened the San Diego-Hollywood split. The Padres took the first, 3 to 2, the Stars the second, 6 to 1.

'Russia On Parade' Presented At York

The famous Red Army Ensemble, which makes one of its rare, screen appearances in "Moscow Music Hall," new Soviet musical film now at the York Theatre, has, since its founding in 1928, grown from a group of eight singers, two dancers, an accordion player, a monologist and one trumpeter, to a staff of over 300 singers, dancers and instrument players, all talented young soldiers.

'Perfect Marriage' Coming To Royal

The latest Hal Wallis production for Paramount, "The Perfect Marriage," is the next attraction at the Royal Theatre. The comedy romance, which opens here Thursday, stars Loretta Young and David Niven as an ideally wedded young couple who almost mess up their marriage.

Featured in supporting roles are Eddie Albert, Charlie Ruggles, Virginia Fields, Rita Johnson, and the too-long absent, ever-popular Zasu Pitts.

DOMINION THEATRE

One of the most exciting man-hunts ever screened occurs in RKO Radio's drama of prison life, "San Quentin," currently at the Dominion Theatre. Lawrence Tierney stars in the role of a rehabilitated ex-convict, who while serving his sentence in San Quentin, founded the Inmates Welfare League, a group of privileged prisoners who kept discipline and sought to help convicts on the road to rehabilitation. When the league is brought into disrepute by a prison break of two of its members, Tierney, to save its good name, personally undertakes to bring in the culprits.

Canadiens Register Second Straight Win

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP)—N.H.L. all-stars defeated Montreal; Canadiens 5 to 3 in the second game of a three-game exhibition series here Saturday night. The Canadiens drew first blood on a goal by Rocket Richard who collected two goals, but the all-stars came back hard in the second period with goals by Syd Abel, Grant Warwick, Max Bentley and Joe Carveth.

In the last frame Montreal counted two goals by Richard and Toe Blake, while Bill Quackenbush made it two up for the Stars with an unassisted goal.

For the 4,000 fans it was major league hockey all the way with a five-player fight and a goal duel between Bill Durnan and Turk Broda providing the thrills.

Why worry about the new increases in lumber prices when you can still buy
FIBREBOARD at the old price. FIBRE-
BOARD is the revolutionary building material which has been tested and proved.
A fireproof building board that combines insulation with structural strength.
Can be applied directly to stud-
ding for either interior or outside finish.
Eliminates the use of shingles, eliminates ordinary lath troubles and best of all, these three things are EASY and QUICK to apply. There is no better building material when applied according to manufacturer's specifications. We expect to be able to supply sufficient nails for each job supplied. Call to today and see us
